Identity Theft Help Guide

3.) What's a good checklist now that I've had my identity stolen in some way?

- Call the companies where the fraud occurred. Call the company's fraud department and explain that someone stole your identity. Ask them to close or freeze the accounts. Change logins, passwords and PINS for your accounts.
- Place a fraud alert. Place a fraud alert with one of the three credit bureaus. That company must tell the other two about your fraud alert. It will make it harder for someone to open new accounts in your name.
- Check your credit report. Request your credit report and check for any new accounts opened in your name. New accounts may take up to 6 months to show up, so continue to monitor your credit report.
- Report identity theft to the Federal Trade Commission. Call the FTC's identity theft hotline at 1-877-438-4338 or visit (www.ftc.gov/complaint). They will help you create your Identity Theft Affidavit which your local police department may need.
- File a report with local police. Report the crime to your local police department and request a report. A police report may be necessary to help convince creditors that someone opened an account in your name and to request an extended fraud alert.
- Contact the Social Security Administration. To report fraudulent use of your Social Security Number, fill out the SSA's online complaint form at (www.ssa.gov/org) or call their fraud hotline at 1-800-269-0271.
- Keep a record. Recovering from identity theft can be a long and complicated process, so it is important to keep a record of all communications. Send all letters by certified mail and keep copies. If you think your case might lead to a lawsuit, keep track of how much time you spend dealing with the problem.
- Complete IRS Form 14039 (Identity Theft Affidavit). Use a fillable form at IRS.gov, print, then mail or fax according to instructions (www.irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/f14039.pdf).
